

PLRPro Content Terms of Use

This document will outline what you can and cannot do with the content that we deliver to you each and every month.

It's very simple, the [YES] indicates what you can do, the [NO] indicates what you cannot do.

- [YES] Can be used exactly as is with your name on it
- [YES] Can be edited completely with your name on it
- [YES] Can be put into reports
- [YES] Can be put into e-books
- [YES] Can be put into auto-responder series
- [YES] Can be used as web content
- [YES] Can be used on any domain YOU own
- [YES] Can be submitted to article directories with a complete rewrite (makes it unique)
- [NO] Can be offered for sale or sold (either individually or as a group)
- [NO] Can sell Resale Rights
- [NO] Can sell Master Resell Rights
- [NO] Can sell Private Label Rights

These is one point here, and that is about selling domains that you own with content on them already.

What Marc and I have agreed upon, is that if you do sell a domain with PLRPro PLR content on it, is that you relinquish all rights to that PLR content, and it is passed onto the purchaser.

This means that when you sell the domain, you must explicitly state that it is PLR content attained from PLRPro, and that they are in no way allowed to duplicate the content, and will abide by these terms set out here (meaning you must basically give them this document along with the site so that they know what is going on).

This is a little more serious than we usually like to be, but I don't want to see someone destroy the use of the content for their own profit, at the expense of everyone else in the membership, and I'm sure you'll agree that that is fair.
